

Disciple Now
November 11-13, 2016
Theme – WAKE UP!

Disciple Now Weekend (D-Now) is essentially an in-home weekend retreat for students Grades 6-12. The distinctive trait separating it from other retreats is that youth do not load up and head off to a getaway for the weekend; instead, they pile into the homes of church members. Bible studies and discussion sessions are led in homes by college students and times of worship and meals are hosted at Middletown. The idea behind Disciple Now is to gather teenagers in their own environment, creating community by strengthening friendships through shared experiences, and maturing them spiritually through focused discipleship. The youth spend Saturday morning serving in the community.

Students will arrive at church Friday evening for worship together, then head to host homes for discussion sessions and fun. Early Saturday morning the youth will head to service sites throughout Louisville. The afternoon is spent in an exciting large group activity. Dinner is served at church, followed by worship and a special activity. Youth then return to host homes for the night. Sunday morning, breakfast is provided and youth attend The Gathering and worship in the Sanctuary at 11:10.
